

Literary Event at the John F. Kennedy Institute

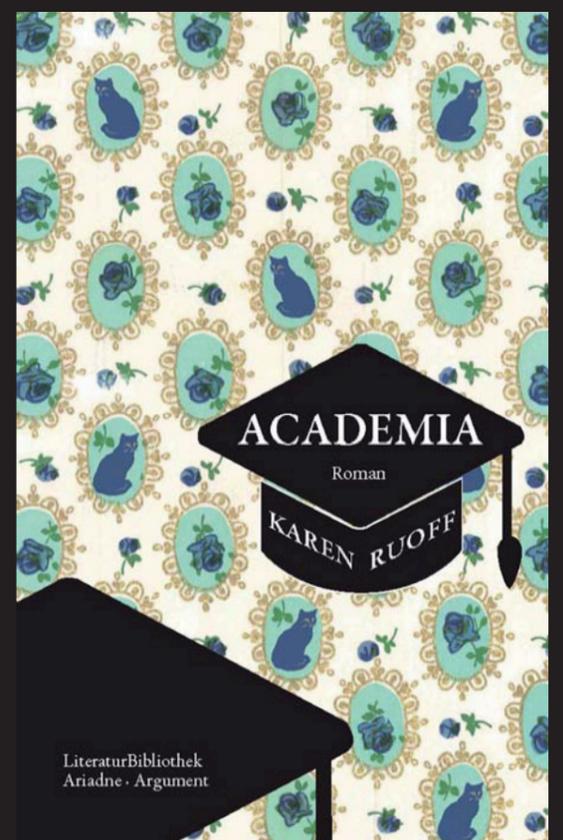

Karen Ruoff (Kramer)

Stanford University

Karen Ruoff (Kramer) has directed Stanford's Berlin campus, developing both the academic program and the site, historic Haus Cramer, since 1979. In 2002 she was awarded the National Cross of the Order of Merit (Bundesverdienstkreuz am Bande) for engagement in cultural diplomacy (US/German and East/West German). In addition to academic articles, she has published literary texts in both languages across a range of genres (fiction, essays, poetry, and a musical libretto).

Reading from the novel Academia: Excellence Has Its Price

Information

John F. Kennedy Institute
for North American Studies
Lansstraße 7-9
14195 Berlin

Department of Culture
Tel.: +49 30 838-54240
Fax: +49 30 838-454240
culture@jfkf.fu-berlin.de www.jfkf.fu-berlin.de/faculty/culture

Wednesday, 22 June 2022
6 p.m. (c.t.)
Room 340